Rugby Game Is Scheduled For Season Opener

British Navy Team Will Play Outfit From Southern California Union

California Union

As a curtain raiser for the football season, the naval affairs committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce today an nounced the completion of arrangements for an international rugby match to be held Sunday, Sept. 20, at Navy field, Long Beach, at 2:30 p.m.

A star rugby team from the H. M. S. Apollo, flagship of the West Indies squadron of the British navy, will play an outstanding team picked from the rains of the Southern California Rugby Union.

Intense interest in the coming match is being manifested in the British film colony at Hollywood, and several notables of the screen world are expected to attend. Of particular interest is the fact that Boris Karloff, the star of many sinister melodramas, will cast off his "Frankenstein" role and as an old rugby fan, act as a "touch" judge.

The proceeds of the match will be given to the Navy Relief

John Rogers, owner of the Famous Chili Shop, first came to the Pacific coast when he decided to attend school at Pacifid University. Forest Grove, Oregon, in 1925. During his college career Rogers was a member of the varsity football squad and made quite a name for himself at the halfback position.

Prior to his college days, however, Rogers served four years in the United States Navy as signaiman, first class. In the four years he was in the service Rogers visited every country in the world and spent considerable time in each.

Shortly after leaving college Rogers came to Torrance and was employed at the Torrance Laundry. In 1931 he decided to go into business for himself and opened his present establishment.
